Yemanja Krasnow, MA, MSW, LCSW
City of Orlando - Onsite Counselor

Biography: I believe in creating a safe, compassionate, and trustworthy environment where my clients feel heard, not judged, and empowered to choose their own path to healing. My goal is to deliver a holistic approach for each individual client to help them develop their own toolbox with skills that not only will guide them through their healing process, but also maintain their treatment gains in the days to come.

I hold twenty years of direct experience working with trauma related diagnosis (mass shooting, combat, emergency response, sexual assault, domestic violence, child abuse) parenting education, and life coping skills. I work with individuals, couples, families, groups, veterans, first responders, military community, and many diverse populations. I am fluent in Spanish and Portuguese and am available to provide services in both languages.

Services are administered by Resources For Living, LLC.

All RFL calls and services are confidential, except as required by law. Resources For Living instructors, educators and participating providers can be independent contractors that are not agents of Resources For Living. Provider participation may change without notice.
