

TIME TO PACK!

Fort Seward, Inc. A Handy Packing Check List During the wagon train, we are trying to relive over 100 years ago, so please choose items accordingly. Keep baggage light and pack in a sturdy duffle bag lined with a plastic garbage bag. During the day your baggage will be in a trailer, if your clothing are not inside the garbage bag, they may get wet. Mark or "brand" your duffle bags, so you can find them easily. In a pile of duffle bags, they can look like everyone else's! Do not use suitcases! This list is just an aid to help you pack what you may or may not want to have along and may not include all the items you would need to have along.

TIPS FOR THE TRAIL

Divide your weight of bags between 2 or more so your duffle is not as heavy to carry.

You'll have to carry your gear to the baggage trailer each morning.

Avoid the bigger tents, they are heavy and are more likely than smaller tents to blow over in a thunder storm!

Make sure there is a "fly" over the top of your tent. Many trail riders have found a polytarp over the top with parachute cord tied to the grommets and heavier tent stakes, could keep you dry. --V, Y, or T shaped tent stake rods or the heavy huge metal nail like tent stakes with plastic T-top, hold much better in wet ground than the thin wire rods that commonly come with tents. Consider purchasing a few of the heavier tent stakes to bring along, to hold your tent during a rain storm, especially to replace the same tent stakes with, that your rain fly attaches to.
