

2023 Parent Communications

5/5/23

Dear Camp Families,

Happy spring to all of our camp families! Can you believe that we open our doors in less than 50 days?!

Hopefully, by now you have all received our family handbook and all of the relevant forms that you need to prepare for camp. If not you can find all of these documents located online at www.incarnationcamp.org/familydocuments

Attached to this email, you will be able to see our Bunk1 parent code. On the bunk1 parent website, you will be able to make an account and access various features which include viewing daily photos of your campers during their time with us, sending bunk notes, and more. Please review the attached pdf for further information on registering. Bunk1 is a third-party company who we have partnered with for several years.

Care Packages

Campers love to receive care packages, so feel free to send your camper a package with such items as playing cards, books, magazines, comics, stickers, stationery, Mad Libs, puzzles, books, and other small gifts.

This summer we are respectfully asking that our families do not send any food products in care packages.

All candy, gum, and food items are prohibited. Many campers suffer from severe allergies, and allowing outside food and candy not only puts these campers in life-threatening danger, but also attracts bugs, raccoons, and other animals that inhabit the woods. If campers wish to have snacks and candy, they can be purchased from the camp store weekly. Any food items sent in care packages will be discarded. We can only accept packages that can fit into a medium flat rate box from the US Postal Service (about the size of a shoebox- 11"x 8.5"x 5.5") or smaller due to space restrictions in the Post Office and at camp. All packages and bulky envelopes addressed to campers will be opened in the presence of a staff member upon collection from the camp office.
