Hey friends!

Ahhh, it's really happening! The moment you both have been waiting for! You two are engaged and one step closer to getting married! We are beyond excited for you and celebrating you big over here!

We know how overwhelming it can be after getting engaged. We were just in your shoes not too long ago! We want you to know that we are in your corner, here to support and encourage you during this exciting season!

Now that you're engaged, you're probably wondering, "now what...?" We've put together this wedding planning checklist to help you keep the stress at bay! The most important thing to remember is that this is YOUR day. You two may decide to keep things simple and opt out of half of these "to-do's" and that is totally okay! Or, there may be certain things you decide to add to the list. However you go about planning your wedding, we encourage you to press into this sweet season together and know that the most important thing at the end of all of this is that you two are going to be married- stepping into an exciting new chapter with one another!

Happy planning!

Much love,

// Sav & Louis
