SELL SHEET QUICK TIPS:

- Incorporate your primary brand color in the background to make an impact. But use your judgment: If it takes away from your product photography, play it safe and keep the background white.
- Use no more than 2 different fonts on your sell sheet.
- Use the best photography you can for your products. This is your customer's first impression of your product! Don't ruin it with pixelated, low-quality photography.
- Avoid huge blocks of copy. No one will read it. Stick to short bullet points.
- Give your sell sheet breathing room by having your margins at least 0.75" from the edge.

If you have a family lineup, place additional photos of your SKUs here.
