

WEDDING DAY TIMELINE

Things to Keep In Mind

SEASON

What season are you getting married in? Are you getting married in the Summer when it's warm and sunny until 7:30pm? Are you getting married in the winter when it's cold and the sun goes down at 5:30pm? Make sure to account for temperature and sunset. Start your timeline planning with that in mind.

WHO'S ON YOUR TEAM

Do you have 1 Photographer, or 2 capturing your wedding day? 1 Photographer will need time to be able to capture everything, where as 2 photographers can divide and conquer. If you have a videographer, make sure there is time for them to also capture what they need as well.

FIRST LOOK VS NO FIRST LOOK

Are you getting a head start to the day or are you planning on seeing your partner as you walk down the aisle? If you opt in for a first look, you can enjoy perks, such as more Bride & Groom Portraits, attending your cocktail hour, and more of your wedding day.

If you choose to go the more traditional route without a first look that works too! There's nothing like seeing your partner for the first time at the altar. Your Bride & Groom Portraits will be shot after family portraits during golden hour and then you can get right to the fun.

AFTER ACCOUNTING FOR ALL THESE THINGS, PICK THE TIMELINE THAT WORKS FOR YOU AND ADJUST AS NEEDED.
HAPPY PLANNING!

Love Always,

Sylvia Santos
