GUIDE

Hey, I'm Becky

Farm girl turned multi-million-dollar business mogul, Becky Hurley, is living proof that you can go through hard times and come out the other side. With a feminine flair to her gritty upbringing, she has set out to share a message of inspiration with the world.

With a passion for dreaming big and bringing dreams to life, she loves to shine the light of hope for those looking to build their future of personal and financial freedom. Having faced years of trauma in her childhood, Becky teaches her audience and community that you can experience hard and traumatic situations and still go on to create a happy, healthy and prosperous life. As the CEO of the Building Dreams Collective and author of her book, Building Dreams, she encourages and inspires others to start their own healing journey to reach ultimate levels of success and happiness.

As the co-founder of a general contracting and real estate investing company with her husband Noah, Becky has been known to build subdivisions, commercial and residential rental complexes, and luxury custom homes across the state of Wisconsin. With an edge in real estate investing, Becky teaches her community how to make smart power moves and follow their dreams while maintaining wellbeing and fun.

Becky enjoys homesteading, farming, reading books, and chasing her own next dream. Becky resides on her farm in Wisconsin with her husband, Noah, and two children, Tesla and Jace.

Becky loves to shine the light of hope for those looking to build their future of personal and financial freedom.

Becky Hurley has an extraordinary ability to connect with the dreamers, leaders and go-getters of her audience, through speaking engagements, masterminds, and courses. As she debuts her book, Building Dreams, Becky speaks passionately about financial freedom, healing, personal growth, and development. Whether she is on stage or leading an intimate mastermind group, her words inspire and motivate, leaving a lasting impact. Whichever platform, Becky shows up on stage bringing her 100%, authentically speaking from the heart and captivating the audience. Her holistic approach and genuine connection make her a sought-after speaker and mentor in various fields, helping individuals transform their lives and achieve their dreams.
