

PRODUCTION: Peter Pan, 2015

ABOUT:

A musical production adapted for youth by Writer/Composer Robert Ursan. The classic tale was adapted to address and eliminate the racist elements in the original version. Ursan decided to write a brand new score and script. He changed some of the characters to Scottish Picts. There were many fearsome female warriors in the Pictish Tribes. Being of Scottish background, Ursan indicated the Scots are impervious to and revel in stereotype and cliché. The score is tuneful and old fashioned. Some of the plot points have changed where they occurred in the original J. M. Barrie play and some have just been gotten rid of entirely. The Darling Family, Nana the Nursemaid/Dog, Peter, Hook, Tink and the Pirates still people the stage - all using dialogue from the original with additions from Robert's sensibilities.

PRODUCTION: The Little Prince, 2016

ABOUT:

The Little Prince is a musical and a story that offers something for everyone who experiences it. Based on the famous novella written in 1943 by French writer, poet and pioneering aviator Antoine de Saint- Exupéry, The Little Prince is the tale of an airplane pilot, who crashes in the Sahara desert, where he finds a little prince, a boy who comes from a small planet he calls Asteroid 325. The Little Prince tells the narrator that he left his planet to explore others, and in the process has encountered a strange, narrow-minded world of grown-ups. The story incorporates a number of very thoughtful themes and symbols.
