
New Mexico Railroad Days Safety Reminder

Santa Fe 2926 will be moving to the Albuquerque South Rail Yards for New Mexico Railroad Days! We know you're excited to see this legendary steam locomotive in action — but safety comes first.

✅ Stay Off the Tracks – Never trespass on railroad property. Tracks, yards, and rights-of-way are private property and dangerous.

✅ Keep Back 25 Feet – Always stay at least 25 feet from the rails and moving equipment.

✅ Use Designated Viewing Areas – The best photos (and memories) come from safe, public spaces.

✅ Obey Crews & Volunteers – Follow instructions from NMHR staff and event partners for everyone's safety.

Movement Notice:

- The 2926 will move to the Albuquerque South Rail Yards sometime Friday afternoon.
- The exact time is not scheduled — the move will occur at the convenience of the railroad so as not to impact regular train operations.
- The return trip back to the restoration site will also occur Sunday afternoon after the close of New Mexico Railroad Days, again at the convenience of the railroad.

 A moving train is quieter, faster, and closer than it looks. Don't risk it.

 Join us September 27–28 at the Albuquerque South Rail Yards to safely experience the history, power, and excitement of Santa Fe 2926 and more at New Mexico Railroad Days!
