JUSTINE CHARLTON & JOEL JEYARAJAH

FROM JUSTINE: We were looking for a venue that was simple and modern but not plain. We liked downtown venues that had a unique vibe and wanted that same feeling somewhere affordable—Eglinton West Gallery was the perfect fit. It was a new venue that none of our guests had been to, and with its natural and industrial esthetic, it didn't require much decor or dressing up. Getting ready in the morning of the wedding day with my bridesmaids and mom was one of the best moments. They had so much positive energy, everyone was loose, singing, and it helped fight off any nerves I had while we got our hair and makeup done. When we arrived at the church, in the limo, we were all singing "Love On Top" by Beyoncé, and that was a moment I will cherish forever. For Joel, walking his dad down the aisle was so special. His dad suffered from Parkinson's and Alzheimer's, and was no longer able to walk on his own. He sacrificed and worked so hard for his family, so it was a very special moment to see him walking down the aisle with Joel. He would pass away two months later, which really eternalizes that moment. While we sat at our beautiful head table in the centre of the room and our main courses were placed in front of us, it brought us back to a few months earlier when we had our tasting. The months of planning had all come down to this one day, and we both just took that moment during dinner to look around the room and appreciate our wedding day. —Kimberly Aglipay
