

I understand that oral conscious sedation is the elective administration of an oral sedative medication, such as Halcion (Triazolam) or Valium (Diazepam), to reduce the fear and anxiety related to dental treatment. Oral conscious sedation can be administered with or without the use of Nitrous Oxide. I understand that conscious sedation is not sleep, and the patient will be able to respond and breathe on their own during the procedure, but will have a reduced state of awareness and decreased reaction or response time.

I understand that the alternatives to oral conscious sedation include no sedation, Nitrous Oxide sedation, IV sedation, and general anesthesia.

I understand that the risks involved with oral conscious sedation include inadequate sedation, atypical drug reactions, and the inability to discuss treatment options with the doctor should circumstances change during my dental treatment.

I understand that I can authorize the treating Dentist to proceed with any changes in treatment based on their professional judgment without the consent of a third party.

I understand that I have the right to designate another individual to discuss any changes in treatment with the treating dentist while I am sedated (please initial by one of the below):

I authorize the treating dentist to proceed with any changes to the currently planned dental treatment, if changes arise while I am sedated.

I authorize to make the decision on my behalf to change my treatment plan as advised by the treating dentist.

I confirm that pre-operative directions were provided and reviewed with me prior to today's appointment. I confirm that the following instructions have been followed in preparation for today's sedation appointment (please initial by each of the following):
