THE GROOM'S GUIDE
FOR THE WEDDING DAY

PUT THE BEST MAN IN CHARGE

Your best man plays an important roll on your wedding day, so make sure you turn to someone you trust. Be sure to give the best man the phone numbers for ALL vendor contacts and important wedding party/family members on the day-of (and vice-versa). He's going to be your best bet to putting out all the fires on your wedding day (and believe me, there will be a few mishaps), while you focus on your new spouse and guests.

KEEP A SCHEDULE IN THE MORNING

While we are on the subject of groomsmen, you know that one friend that you have that's late to everything? Don't be afraid to tell your friends to be about 15 minutes earlier than you actually need them to be ready. We all know that time can get away from us when there's so much going on and celebrating to do. And hey, if you have extra time left over, one more round of bourbon before you head out the door. :)

KEEP BELONGINGS TO A MINIMUM

Try to keep your pockets light on the wedding day. If there's anything you do need to carry with you, make sure it's in your breast pocket inside your jacket. This is less-noticeable than your pants pockets. Same goes for groomsmen, as well.

BE READY TO HELP YOUR BRIDE

It's not often that your new wife gets to wear an extravagant dress like the one on your wedding day, so she might need an extra bit of help navigating throughout the day. Be ready to lend a hand, whether it's helping hold her train, or with the bouquet.

And don't forget to tell her how beautiful she looks. She will light up with happiness, trust me!

BE MENTALLY PREPARED FOR PHOTOS

I know, I know... you're probably not looking forward to being in front of the camera all day. It's not often that I have a groom that actually likes taking photos, I totally understand. We try to make it as quick and painless as possible, knowing that you'd rather be celebrating with your new spouse and friends. After all, that is the point of your wedding day and we want to keep a good balance with providing you the best possible photos and a great experience! Just remember that you only have one day for all of these memories and we want to make sure we capture all of them. Your fiancé has probably worked tirelessly on making sure every detail is absolutely perfect, so it's our job to make sure we capture her vision and everything that's important. Once we get what we need for your photos, let the fun begin!
