 THE FIGGIE FOUNDATION

Dear Fairmount Family,

Can you think of a time that a teacher helped you grow? At Fairmount Center for the Arts, we are lucky to have some amazing teaching artists who work each and every day to not only teach techniques and skills, but also about the power of the arts in our lives. We're thankful that we were able to bring arts experiences to more than 7,500 people last year. It wouldn't be possible without the support of our community and our team. You can learn more about some of our stellar faculty and staff in the new Faculty Feature on pages 8-9.

One of our other amazing faculty members is Ms. Kate, who graces our cover. A longtime instructor and Company Member of Ohio Contemporary Ballet, (formerly Verb Ballets) Kate brings rigor to her classes as well as being very welcoming no matter where the student is on their dance journey.

As we turn to the winter/spring 2024 session, we are excited to share brand new programs alongside returning favorites like the advanced ballet and pointe classes that Ms. Kate teaches. Whether you're looking for dance, fitness, music, theatre, or visual arts, we have you covered! Additionally, more programs and events will be announced throughout the session. Be sure to keep an eye out for our e-newsletter or follow us on Facebook and Instagram to stay abreast of the latest updates.

Here's to a great 2024 at Fairmount Center for the Arts! We can't wait to see what you create.

Curator of Photography and Chair,

Cleveland Museum of Art

January 21

With over 8,200 photographic prints, books, and videos, the photography department is the second-largest collection at the Cleveland Museum of Art. This is surprising, given that the first photograph did not enter the art collection until 1935; the first purchase of a photograph did not occur until 1963; and a department dedicated to the medium was not established until 1996. Learn why this now popular medium got such a slow start and what forces and individuals led to its rapid growth starting in the 1980s in this exploration of the history of collecting photography at the CMA.

Faculty Feature

Learn more about some of the amazing teaching artists working at Fairmount Center for the Arts in these special spotlight stories.

Patti Susman

Director of Fairmount Youth Theatre

Patti is an honors graduate of Cleveland State University. She has a degree in Dramatic Arts. She has been with Fairmount since 1982, where she has directed over 80 productions. She has also taught dance, art and gymnastics.

Patti was the first Youth Theatre Director at the Solon Center for the Arts and was also an Assistant Director and instructor for the Heights Youth Theatre.

Patti trained as a dancer with Dave and Shirley Morganstern. She was a member of the Morgan Dancers. She and her sisters performed throughout the Cleveland area. She began her acting career at the old Musicarnival Theatre, located in Warrensville Hts. Ohio.

At age 13, she was selected as one of the youngest apprentices in the theatre's history. She spent 3 summers working, in various capacities, on Broadway touring company productions, concerts and children's theatre performances.

It was at Musicarnival that Patti was given the opportunity to teach and direct theatre classes to younger students and that is when she decided that arts education was her passion, and she has pursued that passion ever since.

What is the most satisfying part of your job?

I love to watch our students grow over time. One of the advantages of being at Fairmount Center for so long is that we get to watch the progression of our students. We see them gain confidence from one show to the next. We have had students receive college scholarships and even go all the way to Broadway, but it is that self esteem and confidence that our students take with them, wherever they go, that make us proud of what we do.

Did you imagine when you started at Fairmount in 1982 that you would still be teaching here in 2023?

Yes, I did imagine being at Fairmount for this long. I am one of the lucky people who does exactly what I have dreamed of doing. When I was young and performing professionally, I was given the opportunity to teach those younger than me. I realized then that I enjoyed sharing what I knew with others. When I started at Fairmount I was not married and had no kids. I taught everything including theatre, dance, art and gymnastics. I now have a husband, 2 sons and 4 grandkids. Fairmount has been through its ups and downs over the years, but its mission of sharing and teaching the arts has always been strong, and that is why I am still here.

If you were just starting your career as a performer today, what advice would you give your younger self? Big lesson in your career path?

I would tell my younger self to trust your self, trust your gut feelings and have confidence in your convictions. I would also say don't listen to the naysayers and the negative people. I always tell our students that they should not ever say, "I can't, say I can and I will." I wish that I had figured that out earlier, but it is my motto now.

Your favorite show-as a fan or as a director?

As a director my favorite show is always the one that I am working on. As a fan I like anything musical that tells a great story.

Amy Shea

*Visual Arts
Instructor*

*Homeschool
Instructor*

Amy Shea received a B.A. from Cleveland State University in Visual Arts, licensed to teach grades K – 12. She taught in public schools for four years before having children. Amy continued to teach Art part time at Lakeland Community College in the Community Education Department and also Art History at Breckenridge Village.

Then, she taught at Grace Christian Academy for ten years as she homeschooled her two children. Currently, Amy teaches private and group lessons and is involved with the homeschool community in Lake and Geauga County.

Amy also enjoys teaching arts and crafts at a community horse camp during the summers. She loves to work with children in a creative manner and pursues her own artistic endeavors as well. Amy lives in Painesville with her husband and has two adult children.

Your favorite artist or art movement?

My favorite artist is Henry Ossawa Tanner.

With all that you're managing, do you have any time management secrets you would like to share?

My time management secret is to realize that I can take very small steps in order to accomplish something complicated.

What brings you the most joy as a teacher?

Watching children grow in confidence in creative, academic, social, and intrapersonal aspects is what I find most rewarding about teaching.

Describe a "perfect" day off, what would we be likely to find you doing?

On my 'perfect' day off you will find me drawing, spending time with my children, hiking in a forest, exploring, and reading.

Abigail Johnson

Music Director

Abigail is a multi-instrumentalist performer and composer who enjoys playing everything from folk to classical to electronic music.

She teaches violin, music theory, composition, and electronic music. Abigail was a student of CIM's preparatory school and suzuki program before earning her Bachelor of Music in Composition from Baldwin Wallace University.

She earned her MFA in Experimental Sound from California Institute of the Arts where she taught music theory and music history courses. Abigail has traveled all over the world for festivals and artist residencies including Alaska, New York City, and France.

Where did your love of music come from?

My love of music came from my family. Despite most of them never learning how to play an instrument, I was surrounded by a deep love of music from the beginning. Whether it was in the car with my grandpa, dancing in our living room with my cousins, or at the campground with my grandma, music was always at the center.

How have your global adventures influenced your teaching style?

Being able to experience concerts, artists' events, galleries, and classes in other countries has greatly influenced how open my teaching style is. I have learned that passion is the most important component to learning something new. Taking time to learn my students' passions and find a way to relate them to what we're learning is incredibly important.

Your favorite performer?

It's hard to pick one, but I would have to say Sarah Belle Reid. She is a trumpet player with a classical background who uses sensors and computer programs to create sounds to 'accompany' her while she plays her trumpet. She emphasizes experimentation and multi-disciplinary approaches and is one of my biggest influences.

Place or destination next on your "must visit" list?

It will most likely not be my next trip, but Java is high up on my list. I have played in a couple of Javanese Gamelan Ensembles and cherish those experiences. I would love to be able to experience a concert and maybe even play in Java one day.

DANCE

For more than 50 years, Fairmount Center for the Arts has brought high-quality dance instruction to Northeast Ohio.
