hello
hello
hello

hey, i'm MAE! AND I'M SO EXCITED you're here!

My days as a Kinder & Elementary school teacher taught me a lot about how much our kids benefit from mindfulness. I've personally seen the transformation, the social-emotional skills & wellbeing skyrocket, and moments of pause before being present.

I've seen kids grow up to be confident, compassionate, caring people... people this world so desperately needs more of.

Wolf & Whimsy Kids started in 2017 when I began creating mindfulness resources while I was completing my Master's degree in Educational Psychology at McGill University.

Since then, I've self-published multiple books and have had my work published in some of the world's most sought-after kids yoga teacher trainings, including Cosmic Kids and Kids Yoga Stories.

And I'm just getting started.

I've heard from people all over the world just how much they have loved introducing the practice of mindfulness in their homes and classrooms. Whether it's through yoga, guided imagery, journaling, mindful games, or something else, the impact mindfulness practices have on our mind, body, and soul is unmatched.

ABOUT Guided IMAGery

Guided imagery is a method of achieving a state of relaxation by listening to someone, either in-person or a recording, tell a story.

These stories focus on a particular feeling or aspect of living such as happiness, sadness, bullying, fear, etc. and activate the five senses of the body. The telling of these stories include such vivid detail that the listener can actually feel, taste, smell, hear, and see in their minds the surroundings described in the story.

Guided imagery is widely used for helping participants achieve a state of peace. Practicing guided imagery can reduce stress and anxiety, ease physical tension, release emotions, shift thoughts and energy, improve focus, increase motivation and creativity, and increase happiness, among many other benefits.

TIPS FOR BEST GUIDED IMAGERY

- Lie or sit down in a comfortable position.
- Before starting, encourage relaxation by practicing at least one breathing technique- Ujjayi is the best for relaxation (see below). Follow this breathing exercise with 30 seconds-one minute of natural breathing.
- Close your eyes if you wish. Closing your eyes optimizes the guided imagery but never make yourself uncomfortable- if you don't want to close your eyes you don't have to! Guided imagery doesn't work if you are uncomfortable.
- If you are reading this guided imagery:
 - speak slowly and softly, but loud enough that those participating can hear you.
 - the ellipses in the scripts are meant to signal a pause in your speech. This pause can be as long as you like. However, keep in mind that younger children have a shorter attention span than tweens and teens so the longer you pause the more likely it is that they will become distracted during that pause.
 - it is okay to play some light music in the background during guided imagery. Keep the music low and instrumental, preferably the same song on repeat or a longer song. This way there is no distraction by the change of tone/volume/instruments of songs. Also, music with words tends to be distracting. You can also practice guided imagery without music, or you can use music during the pre-guided imagery relaxation time and, once the music stops, start your guided imagery script.
 - To come out of guided imagery, allow for some silent time after your script is complete. Then ask participants "Wiggle your fingers...wiggle your toes...slowly wake your body up. When you are ready, open your eyes, and come into a sitting position"

Once the guided imagery is complete, take the opportunity to think about the guided imagery- how did you feel during the guided imagery, do you have any thoughts and feelings about it?, how does it relate to "real life", etc. Really take this opportunity to understand how guided imagery scripts can work for your mind and body by paying attention inward.

Finally, have fun with it! These scripts are simply guidelines. Add your own spin on them or use them as a guide to create your own guided imagery scripts!

UJJAYI BREATHING

Ujjayi breathing is a breathing technique also known as Ocean Breathing. This is a great breathing technique for relaxing muscles and slowing heart rate, creating a sense of calm and peace within the mind and body.

How to Practice:

Inhale slowly through the nose with your mouth closed, filling your body with oxygen starting at the lower belly, to the ribs, to the chest, to the throat.

Then exhale through the nose, starting at the throat, to the chest, to the ribs, to the lower belly.

After practicing Ujjayi breathing, take a few deep, slow natural breaths to cement the breathing practice.

You are walking home from a nice walk in the park when it begins to rain...

Slowly, small drops of water fall from the sky... lightly landing on your skin... you turn your face toward the sky and let the rain wash away your unwanted feelings.

It begins to rain harder... the water makes you feel fresh and new...

Standing in the rain, you let the water wash away all of your unwanted feelings... They slide down from your face... to your arms and hands... dripping off your fingers onto the ground... Down your chest to your stomach to your hips... down your legs to your feet... dropping off your toes...

All of your unwanted emotions are on the ground at your feet... It begins to rain harder, creating a river where you stand... and suddenly your unwanted emotions are a part of that river... flowing along... lost in the larger water they are now a part of.

You watch as your unwanted emotions flow away from you forever.
You feel light, fresh, and clean.

Imagine you are standing on the soccer field. There, in the middle of the field, is a soccer ball. You slowly walk to the ball and begin to kick it around.

Back and forth...up and down the field you kick the soccer ball. Notice how kicking this ball makes you feel...Now imagine any anger, sadness, or hurt you are feeling are inside the soccer ball.

Anger...Frustration...Sadness...Stress...Anxiety... There they are, huddled together, inside the soccer ball you are kicking around...Back and forth...up and down the field you kick the soccer ball.

On your next kick, you lift your leg SUPER high...and kick that ball right out of the field. There it goes...flying through the air...taking your emotions with it. The ball lands softly in some grass on the other side of the field.They are gone...all of those emotions you were feeling are gone.

You feel so much better...so much more relaxed...Your heart is full of love...happiness...You smile as you look to the other side of the field and see your emotions so far away from you .Take a deep breath in and imagine your whole body filling up with love and happiness.
