PROPHETIC WORD FOR VINTAGE (March 1st, 2024)

'I see the hand of God resting on the top of Vintage. His hand is laid flat, to ensure that it makes full contact with the whole of the building. He is expressing and imparting his nature and fullness upon this place.

Vintage, there is an outpouring of His Spirit available, at the ready. It is prepared. It is time to shake off the culture that you live in, it can no longer define the limits of your praise, worship, your prayers, your love for me, nor for the family.

You have been confined, restricted, and held back by this and it is time for you to experience the culture and freedom of the Kingdom, of my people, of my presence. It is time to wholly believe, and to step into this. It begins with prayer, your prayers, prayers that are expressed in belief, prayers that lay expectant, that see my hand of outpouring and grab hold and cling to it; raise your prayers and shake your dwellings. I have given you greater freedom and power than you currently walk in, but the culture of your communities limits it.

My hand has been placed upon you, it is in full contact with you, ready to impart my fullness. Do you see it, do you believe? Will you seek the release with the whole of your hearts, will you step beyond the culture you live in to express your love, fear, and need for my touch? Will you be undignified and peculiar?

There is an outpouring, an expression of my Spirit and heart available. In this place, there are songs and worship that are expansive and will embody my Spirit. In this place, you will know the freedom to worship with your whole heart, to know me in intimacy and closeness. Lay your head on my shoulder; weep, cry, sing, laugh, mourn, rejoice, and know my presence, but you must break the bonds of an oppressive culture to fully know me. Shake the bonds off as you enter in, the world owns them and loves them, but they belong outside my house, not on my family. I know and see the restraints and limits of where you live and how they press on you. Close your eyes. See what I have for you; see my hand upon you. Your hearts ache for freedom, and my Spirit in you groans to be revealed through you.

I have given you dreams and visions, and my Spirit has spoken to you of what is available. Believe and run to it. Pray with your whole heart, a heart that sees and knows what I have made possible. Praise with your whole heart, a heart that knows the depth of my love. Worship with your whole heart, a heart that knows a true fear and reverence for my presence. Express the Spirit within you with your whole heart, a heart that is compelled and fervent to see my hand, my love, and my power extended to your brothers and sisters. All of creation aches, groans, and cries out for the revelation of the sons and daughters of God. It does so because it beats with my heart. Throw off the restraints, seek me, seek my touch, and let the revelation free. Let it flow to and through you, rivers of living water. Join with the cries of creation to see the revelation fall upon your homes, your families, and all the places of your worship.

I love you dearly and my heart is toward you. You cannot imagine how deeply I love you and want to see you walk freely in what I have prepared for you. I see and know you; you are cherished and beloved. My heart races when I think of you, and I walk closely with you to reveal myself in and through you. Fall into me, abandon all that is not me, expand your sight and see what I have prepared. Live, breathe, and know me in the expanse of my Spirit.
