The "CORE 4" programs have been created to raise awareness around the main elements that affect every single individual, team, and organization... and that affect can be either positive or negative, constructive or destructive, and serve as a strength or a developmental opportunity.

These programs are based on a combination of Doc's many years of leadership & culture experience in the USAF (including senior leadership time on the Thunderbirds), in the corporate world (as a senior leader in a Berkshire Hathaway Energy company), as well as the academic world (PhD Industrial-Organizational Psychology).
