ABOUT

Michelle Calloway is a photographer who uses a range of mediums, both digital and analog, to create contemporary portraits of models, artists, celebrities as well as ordinary people. In both her commissioned assignments and her portrait work, Michelle's careful approach and love for the powerful gaze aims to connect the viewer more deeply with her subjects.

For her more recent work the artist's technique is characterized by using a medium-format camera to capture the stories of individuals not normally seen in the public eye. These intimate portraits dive into life in the American south and aim to explore diverse subjects expressing themselves through their own self-identity.
