

what is it?

The Special Education & Advocacy Lab is an on-line, on-demand training course for parents of children on special education that are interested in improving their advocacy at the IEP table. Each of the ten modules is a little under an hour, so in about 6.5 hours – less than one work day – or a few weeks' time we go start to finish in Special Education Advocacy. We cover Parent Rights and the nuts and bolts of the IEP Meeting, the basics of the law, a deep dive into the IEP document and goal writing, progress monitoring and specially designed instruction, due process, document organization, communication strategies and so much more! Each module is jam packed with content and collaborative, reasonable, objective advocacy tips.

EMPOWERING

Empower parents, school staff, and community members to advocate for special education students within the framework of the law.

INSPIRING

Inspire parents to take control of their child's special education journey through objective, collaborative, child-centered advocacy.

CONFIDENCE BUILDING

Build confidence in parents, school staff, and community members to actively participate in both the development and the implementation of the IEP.
