

Throughout history, wood flooring and wood surfacing have been found in the most humble to the most opulent spaces. From the wide, rough-hewn planks used in farm houses, to the intricate parquet patterned floors gracing palaces and castles, wood has been prized for its beauty and warmth. Designers often specify wood for their projects because it brings a natural element to interior spaces, and because of its durability, availability and ease of installation and maintenance. However, their creativity have been limited by the traditionally linear strips or planks, most commonly available in the marketplace.

Jamie Beckwith created a new line of products that challenges the way you think about wood. In her interior design practice, Jamie was challenged to create truly custom solutions for high-profile clients who seek unique objects, uncommon finishes and exquisite materials. Travel, fashion and art have all played a role in the design of her innovative products. The Jamie Beckwith Collection® is comprised of three product lines that all draw on the beauty of wood, and the warmth and texture that can only be found in nature.

The Enigma® line has forever changed the limitations of traditional wood plank flooring and wood surfacing and created endless possibilities to infuse your space with creativity. The Enigma line has 12 patterns, ranging from a classic tile shape to the fabulously ornamental. It is offered in several different wood species, and a number of finish options, so you can design a truly custom installation.

The Projection® line was designed and engineered for vertical and ceiling applications and is offered in a split pattern block. The Rustic line consists of 3 I/2" blocks that come in four thicknesses, to create a stunning interplay of texture, pattern, light and shadow. The varying thicknesses of the blocks can be arranged in an endless combination of patterns, limited only by your imagination. Wedge is a IO degree angle block with a physical and emotional weight that gives a sexy and dangerous feeling when installed in commercial or residential environments.

Etched® is an innovative offering of prestige wood surfacing treatments for vertical applications. This engineered hard wood tile series combines organic wood surfaces animated by graphic etched designs. Each Etched tile is cut, sanded, stained and hand finished with a beautiful no VOC hard oil wax.

We invite you to unleash your imagination and discover the endless possibilities with the Jamie Beckwith Collection®.

Rethink wood surfaces. In the past, there have been relatively few choices for wood surfacing, compared to the limitless options you have in tile. Now imagine Enigma® wood tiles, in an array of patterns, colors and species. The possibilities are endless!

The Enigma line was created to offer truly unique and custom wood surfacing designs to the trade. Consider some of these options— use one of the 12 patterns as a wall-to-wall flooring installation, mix colors and patterns on a wall surface, or create an inset rug pattern in a traditional plank floor.

Finally, floors and walls become a design element, instead of an afterthought.
