“The Brain Health Program has been an incredible tool for healing and knowledge.

The program, with Dr. Brie's support, provides the perfect intersection between focusing on a deep understanding of lifestyle factors that might be impacting your own health and then evaluating medical treatments based on your own specific circumstances. It was fascinating to learn more about my own brain functioning and how it intersects with physical and mental health. I am very grateful to be armed with the knowledge that I now have from completing this program.”

“The Healthy Brain Program has given me an entirely new understanding of myself, my trauma, and my neurodiversity. It explained why I have struggled with emotions and reactions, and why therapy hasn't been able to fully address this, and then gives specific strategies for what can actually help. Dr. Brie helped me make sense of so many physiological parts of a very complex system, and I feel empowered and hopeful.”
