About Us

Gallery at Santa Fe Painting Workshops

At Santa Fe Painting Workshops, we make painting approachable to everyone, regardless of skill-level. We teach fun & inspiring painting classes in our sweet historic adobe gallery across from the Santa Fe River and one block from Canyon Road.

It is our goal to share the gift of painting with others because we know the many benefits of making art, including calming the mind, relaxing the nervous system, and an overall feeling of connection and inspiration.

About the Founder

Andrea Cernianski

I am a painter and teacher who lives in Santa Fe, New Mexico with my spouse and two toddlers. Originally from the Philadelphia area, I grabbed my first paintbrush when I was 20 years old, and haven't turned back since. I fell in love with painting and Art History during my time at the University of Pittsburgh, and focused mostly on realism at that time. After moving to Santa Fe, I began my exciting journey in abstract painting. What I love about abstraction is the infinite ways one can represent an idea. I have been painting for 28 years, and teaching for 20. My paintings are in both corporate and private collections around the country.

The Gallery

Taking a class at Santa Fe Painting Workshops, just one block from Canyon Road, gains you access to Andrea's gallery space in which she sells her original paintings and fine art prints. Each piece is unique and has a story to tell. She works in acrylic, natural pigments, mica and other materials.

"Andrea's art is stunning. My wife and I own three of her original works, which we love. All are different, yet uniquely hers. Although we visit museums and galleries often, it's seldom we encounter work as arresting or as beautiful as Andrea's."
