Tiffany & Peter

"Try not to get wrapped up in all of the little stuff. All that truly matters in the end is the love and commitment you have for one another."

in the beginning...

Tiffany and Peter's relationship began with an unforgettable dance at a small work function ten years ago, and came full circle when they again danced as husband and wife, with the sun setting over the lavender fields of the San Vidro Ranch.

Planting their marriage came very early on for the couple, when they would spend hours discussing each other's life plans and their future family. After a romantic and sentimental proposal in front of Peter's Grandfather's house in Spain, their plans could begin in earnest.

Finding the perfect dress was actually harder for me than I had originally thought it would be. I found myself falling in love with every dress I was trying on, making my decision very difficult. What I came to realize, however, was the reason I could not make a decision was because I had not found "the one". When I tried on the Rivivi dress it was almost as though the stars had aligned. The dress was perfect – lace, soft organza, heart shaped and most of all ROMANTIC! I was in love. Now for the problem – the wedding was in one month and there was not enough time to order a dress! Don't forget though, the stars were aligned for me that day! The sample was in perfect condition and only needed minor alterations. The wedding veil was the icing on the cake for me. I loved the soft touches of lace wrapped around the edges. It pulled everything together and made the look complete.

the flowers...

I knew I wanted a soft and romantic ambiance for the wedding and ceremony. Mindy Rice truly helped to make that vision a reality through her floral and event design. She truly is one of the most talented women I have ever met!

Bouquets of white ranunculus, seeded eucalyptus, and japonica pieris on an antique tray lined with golden silk

A bouquet of japonica pieris, white Dutch hydrangea, ranunculus, birch leaves, and a variety of pearl David Austin roses
