

Why Mentorship Still Matters in the Modern Workplace

To book or for questions, contact kathy@brilliant-balance.com, 513-375-9394

Program Bio

Mentorship can sometimes sound like an antiquated idea, but in truth, it can greatly accelerate our professional and personal growth if we embrace it.

In fact, as we chart a course for our lives, our best mentors are often just a step or two ahead of us, moving along a similar path.

They can help us make progress toward our goals with less friction by sharing their experience so we don't repeat the mistakes they may have made!

This talk is designed to encourage attendees to both seek out and serve as mentors based on their life and work experience and ambitions. In the end, when we build a culture in which everyone is a teacher and everyone is a student, we all move forward faster!

Attendees will learn:

- Why mentorship still matters in our modern culture
- The difference between organic mentors, paid mentors, and curriculum-based mentors
- Why you likely need more than one mentor
- How to find a mentor when you need one
- How to be a fabulous mentee people will want to help
- How to be a generous mentor who is both valued and fulfilled
- How to know if a mentorship relationship is working and what to do when it's not

About Cherylanne

As the founder and CEO of Brilliant Balance, Cherylanne is the creative engine for the company; she is also a popular speaker, an advisor to corporate leaders, and a trusted coach to a roster of private clients.

An authority on well being, work-life balance, and human potential, Cherylanne equips professionals to get the most out of work and life through compelling content, comprehensive coaching programs, and a tightly knit community. She hosts the top-rated Brilliant Balance Podcast which reaches thousands of listeners each week with inspiring messages and practical advice.

Cherylanne lives in Cincinnati, Ohio with her husband John and their three children.

“Loved Cherylanne’s energy & I felt like I was with her in person. She kept my attention at all times - it felt like she was talking right to me! Thank you for one of the best virtual speaking engagements I’ve attended!”

- Hewlett Packard Enterprise keynote attendee

C H E R Y L A N N E B I O