Hey there Teacher friend,

Thank you so much for downloading this resource! I hope it will engage your students and spur them into a love of reading... or at the very least to discover some new favorite books.

This resource includes 6 different styles of tracking sheets your students can use to keep track of the First Chapter Friday read alouds they try. Whether you use them to keep your students accountable or help them remember the books they want to check out from the library, I hope they prove useful. I also included versions of each tracking chart students can use to track books they have finished reading in entirety as well. Just look at the worksheet heading and directions to distinguish the difference between the two. Finally, the entire list of First Chapter Friday videos available on my channel is included via a link here and also on page 3. It is a live Google Doc that I will continue to update. And last but not least, you will find a sheet you can use to plan ahead and keep track of the FCF's you use/show in class.

Happy teaching and happy reading!

Amanda Zieba

P.S. If you'd like to sign up for my email list, I'll send you 5 GOOD THINGS for TEACHERS twice a month. The items on my list will include a wide range of resources, ideas, videos, reading recommendations, and more. Basically, if I think a middle school ELA teacher would love or use it, I'll include it! FIRST CHAPTER FRIDAY INTERACTIVE WORKSHEETS

Take your Read Aloud and listening experience to the next level with these!

First Chapter Friday

Watch this quick video to learn all about the Mystery Quote hidden in some of my First Chapter Friday videos and how to use it in your classroom.

I have over 130 First Chapter Friday Read Aloud Videos on my channel. MOST have Mystery Quotes hidden inside. If a mystery quote is included, it will be noted in the video description box and also within the first 30 seconds of the video. Videos that do not have were likely made in the first half of 2021 (before I began adding them) or in a graphic novel read aloud when there is already a lot going on, on screen. I hope your students enjoy this added layer to my videos and that it further engages them in the wonderful ritual that is First Chapter Fridays.

Wanna say thanks for all this amazing and free video content?!?!?
