OFFICIAL BIO

I'm Jasmine Star, a world-class speaker, thought leader, podcast host, CEO, and entrepreneur dedicated to helping you reach your fullest potential.

After getting my start in the entrepreneurial world as an internationally recognized wedding photographer, I became a speaker and business strategist for creative entrepreneurs — and spent almost a decade helping business owners across the world take risks and live their lives to the fullest. I then went on to found tech company Social Curator: a monthly subscription that serves as a digital marketing agency in your pocket, complete with an A.I. social media manager providing customized marketing content.

As a top podcast host and keynote speaker, my goal is simple: to empower you to change the way you approach your professional and personal ambitions. My approach is rooted in the desire to help you build the future you want and help you see your own potential — regardless of whatever stands in your way.

TOPIC 02

Inspire leaders to spark change worldwide.

Leaders have the ability to change lives — and I craft messages that encourage directors and managers to find and harness that ability. Organizations desire transformational leaders who don't just powerfully overcome challenges, they also want those leaders to guide their teams on how they can do the same.

BOOK A LEADERSHIP KEYNOTE

TOPIC 03

Give tools and frameworks to get back up.

The ability to be resilient in every piece of your life is what makes you a better entrepreneur, a better teammate, and a better leader — and being able to get back up, no matter what life throws at you, is how you build the future you desire. With a resilience-inspired keynote, I empower leaders, teams, and entrepreneurs to learn how to make resilience a daily part of their lives.
