Dr. London Murray

Organizational Change Expert | Leadership Strategist | Global Learning Advocate

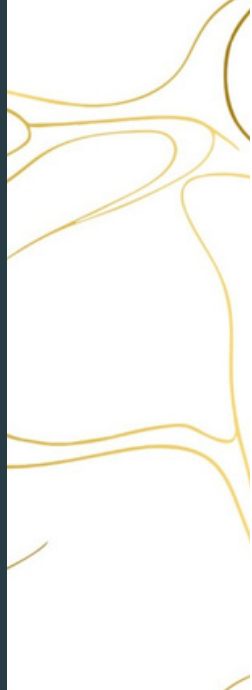

Dr. London Murray is an internationally respected expert in organizational change management (OCM), known for her dynamic leadership in driving enterprise transformation, executive development, and inclusive learning strategy across diverse industries. With a career that spans financial services, retail, chemicals, and higher education, she brings a distinctive, people-first perspective to leading complex change at scale.

As the former Vice President of Learning & Culture at JPMorgan Chase, Dr. Murray architected global learning and engagement strategies for the firm's UX organization, catalyzing a 40% increase in training adoption and significantly boosting employee engagement through data-informed initiatives. Her leadership in executive development and culture transformation has positioned her as a sought-after voice on the future of learning, leadership, and work.

Currently, Dr. Murray serves as a full-time OCM strategist and trusted advisor to executive teams worldwide. She designs and delivers high-impact leadership experiences, scalable learning frameworks, and change strategies that align with organizational priorities. A certified Prosci ADKAR® practitioner, she has led global technology implementations affecting more than 350,000 employees.

Dr. Murray holds a Doctorate in Organizational Learning and Innovation from Wilmington University, with research focused on executive development and mentorship for underrepresented leaders. She also earned a Master of Science in Organizational Leadership and a BBA from Temple University. As a member of the Corporate Learning Network advisory board, Dr. Murray shares her insights through keynotes, publications, and podcasts, championing agile, inclusive learning cultures. Her work and worldview are shaped by extensive international travel, reinforcing her commitment to global thinking and human-centered change.
