WHAT CLIENTS SAY

 July 2, 2022, Janice was Rae Fung | Your Speaking Coach's client

As part of the Ecolab Development Week, we decided to arrange an in-office session to encourage colleagues to return back to office interact and engage. We came across Rae's various workshops online and felt that it fits our objective. We were grateful for engaging with her and everyone had an enjoyable session on "Creating impactful connections"

Rae is very easy to work with, and she helped to curate the content to fit in the previous speaker session. Through various small group activities and using relatable and simple examples we were able to practice our self introduction, think through our "buffet table" to enable purposeful connections and conversations. This session allows very good interaction for everyone especially when covid has made it more challenging. Many positive feedback and takeaways and we love her warm personality and positive energy. Highly recommended!

Invited Rae to be a speaker at our development week to talk about how to connect and make a memorable first impression. Rae is truly an engaging coach that makes me realized that I can also take away a lot of skill set from someone who is a lot younger than me. Enjoy her lively session and will highly recommend her for your company event.
