TRAIN THE TRAINER: GRADE ONE

Objectives and Expected Outcomes

Our comprehensive and accredited online Train the Trainer programme, split into two distinct grades, enables candidates to train others in the fields of etiquette and protocol, expanding their knowledge from the comfort of their own home and largely in their own time.

Both grades have been carefully designed to provide participants with the skills for transformational teaching of their clients anywhere in the world, to build their own commercially successful business platforms, or to expand and enhance their own knowledge of etiquette and protocol for social and professional gain.

Duration and Workload

The duration of this course was six months with a workload equivalent to a two and a half month face-to-face training course.

During this time, participants were required to read all compulsory reading materials, consult further readings, view online videos and listen to audio lessons, take part in twice-monthly webinars and take mini-assessments and pass the final end of course examination.

Modules

The course included seven interactive training modules:

- Interpersonal skills –
- Posture and presence –
- Dining etiquette –
- Afternoon tea
- Dress codes –
- Business etiquette –

Teaching etiquette and protocol today (unexamined)
