

CAPS Directory

A Certified Aging-in-Place Specialist (CAPS) is a remodeling or design professional trained to help seniors and people with mobility challenges live safely and comfortably in their own homes. They specialize in home modifications like grab bars, ramps, accessible bathrooms, improved lighting, and other features that support independence and safety as you age.

Please note: The following recommendations are provided for your convenience as a starting point only. We have not personally worked with or vetted these providers, so we encourage you to do your own research, check reviews, and ensure they're a good fit for your specific needs and preferences.

- VanderBeken Remodel (serving Snohomish County): Their team includes CAPS-credentialed professionals providing universal design solutions—like curbless showers, wider doorways, non-slip flooring—tailored for aging in place

<https://vanderbekenremodel.com/>

- Coast View Construction Inc. (serving Bellingham & northern Puget Sound): Jeff Boyd, a Certified Aging-In-Place Specialist, offers remodeling services for home accessibility enhancements

<https://g.co/kgs/8m2YkPo>

- James Hall & Associates Inc. (serving Camano Island): James Hall is a CAPS-certified specialist serving Camano Island and Snohomish County residents.

<https://www.houzz.com/professionals/general-contractors/james-hall-and-associates-inc-pfvwus-pf~310496054>

- Sentinel Construction (serving Kingston and nearby areas): David Godbolt, a CAPS-certified contractor, serves the Kitsap Peninsula and nearby Snohomish County fringes.

<https://www.houzz.com/professionals/general-contractors/sentinel-construction-and-consulting-inc-pfvwus-pf~378804428>

How to Use This CAPS Directory

- Contact each provider to confirm service regions and availability.
- Ask for references and examples of past transformation projects.
- Discuss your priorities—grab bars, ramps, curbless showers, lighting upgrades, etc.—and ask how they'd phase the work.
- Get multiple quotes and verify credentials, including CAPS certification and liability insurance.