Angie's got creds big time. Before she became a professional speaker and workshop facilitator, Angie's career lives ranged from being a school educator for 12 years to well-known stylist for a major fashion organization and then a successful real-estate businesswoman. Her career trajectory hasn't stopped climbing. She now presents to audiences ranging from 30 and 3,000 attendees and she's always comfortable in her own skin, helping people find their own unique style, groove and a greater sense of purpose. She's the perfect choice for your next event or conference, captivating audiences every time she takes the stage.

Angie Q's the Real Deal...genuine and authentic, Angie relates to everyone of all ages and backgrounds. She's been there, done that. As a wife and mom, she knows how life can happen and how you can set the tone and stage to make every day less stressful and more productive and enjoyable.
