

DALLAS + FORT WORTH
▲ DENISE MCGAHA INTERIORS

A study in soft blues and grays, this Southlake, Texas, master bathroom is undeniably soothing. Tailored floor-to-ceiling drapery complements the marble tiles and elegantly frames the angular, freestanding bathtub, while chrome accents add pizzazz to the space.

SAN FRANCISCO
▲ PAMELA PENNINGTON STUDIOS

In Menlo Park, California, clever space planning and organic materials yielded this warm, functional and serene master bathroom. A custom-designed vanity island in the room's center opens wall space for full-height storage, while a large glass-enclosed steam shower replaces an unwanted bathtub. Bamboo and limestone reflect light and add textural interest.

ARIZONA

The goal for this space in Vail, Colorado, was a glamorous spa-like retreat—comfortable yet refined. That was achieved with luxurious stone, mirrored vanities, a sparkling chandelier and a contemporary bathtub.

PACIFIC NORTHWEST
MARIANNE SIMON DESIGN ▶

The limited palette of marble, glass and brass employed in this Seattle bathroom beautifully exemplifies the adage that “a little goes a long way.” Marble—used liberally on the bath surround, wainscoting, custom washstand and parquet floor—offers texture and movement, and brass fittings and details bring an understated bit of bling.

COLORADO
▼ SLIFER DESIGNS

A magnificent Fusion granite-slab shower with a Taj Mahal quartzite surround was intended as the focal point of this breathtaking master bathroom in Vail, Colorado. However, the stunning view of Vail Mountain was also key and became entirely possible from a luxurious vantage point: a 7-by-4-foot bathtub built for two.

AUSTIN + SAN ANTONIO
▲ DICK CLARK + ASSOCIATES

A high-contrast material palette sets a sense of drama in this airy, linear Austin bathroom. Charcoal-colored matte floors and walls are the backdrop for white fixtures and chrome fittings. A pair of sleek vessel sinks top a glossy white floating vanity, and a deep freestanding bathtub offers a cradle of soothing simplicity.
