Wilmington, NC – January 13, 2021 -- Wilmington attorneys Devlin Horton and Nick Mendez have established Horton & Mendez, PLLC, a Wilmington law practice focused on personal injury and wrongful death. Having worked together for a large firm representing insurance companies, the partners bring valuable insight to their clients' cases, with critical understanding as to how insurance companies investigate, evaluate and defend claims. Horton & Mendez, PLLC, opened on January 11, 2021, and is located in Wilmington's Soda Pop District at 705 Princess Street, or online at <https://hortonmendez.com/>.

“Our experience in handling personal injury cases from the insurance company’s point of view gives us unique insight into the insurance companies’ playbook,” said Nick Mendez. “This familiarity with insurance companies helps us prevent clients from settling for less than they deserve,” added Devlin Horton.

The Wilmington firm represents clients injured through car, truck or boating accidents; medical malpractice, nursing home injury or injuries from birth, workers’ compensation, product liability, catastrophic, traumatic or spinal cord injuries, as well as business litigation and bad faith claims from insurance companies.

Devlin Horton earned his JD from the University of North Carolina School of Law, an MBA from UNCW and a BA from the UNC Charlotte. He is a member of the state bar in North Carolina and Virginia. Nick Mendez earned his JD from the University of Richmond School of Law and his BA from UNC Chapel Hill. He is a member of the NC State Bar.
