Additional Information

If you haven't already, please be sure to view my family portrait portfolio on my website at www.tonyamalay.com. Click on the "Portfolio" link at the top of the homepage, and then choose Gallery III Family Portraits. You'll also be able to get some great clothing ideas from the portfolio.

You will have the choice to order prints from me or you can order your own prints from the lab of your choice. Print pricing is available on the website located in the "Info" section.

Each portrait collection includes a select number of lightly retouched digital files. You'll initially receive all of the images captured, and then you will be able to select your favorites for light retouching. Light retouching includes blemish removal and shine minimizing for all subjects in the images, and additional light retouching as needed: bruises on legs, removal of photobombers on the beach, etc. Extensive retouching would be available for a nominal charge. Extensive retouching includes body retouching, head swapping, severe acne, beach cleanup, etc.

For garden portraits, I recommend mid to late afternoon as garden greenery photographs best with bright sun. I do not recommend evening or dusk portraits because once the sun starts to set, the foliage will look too dark. I typically photograph my clients in tree shade with the greenery in the background fully lit by the sun. Shade provides beautiful diffused light which is very flattering for portraits.

For beach portraits, my recommendation is golden hour (the hour prior to sunset) for the most complimentary lighting. During morning and mid day beach portraits the sun is incredibly bright and people tend to have difficulty keeping their eyes open, especially small children. Also, full sun is not typically flattering for portraits. During golden hour, we would be able to capture some bright light in addition to the sunset colors as the sun sets over the water. We would also have approx 5 minutes of afterglow which is the pretty light in the sky once the sun has set.

If you are planning a destination portrait, I recommend scheduling your portrait on your first available day to allow for a backup day. In the event of cancellation due to poor weather, no payment is required.
